To Whom It May Concern

Subject: Nitin Mendiratta

Having spoken to Mr. Nitin Mendiratta on several occasions, I have found it extremely difficult to choose the right words to portray this young man's zeal and vision to others. I have, therefore, chosen a quote of Sri Chinmoy, which I hope would shed some light on this remarkable journey upon which this young man has embarked—the completion of which I wish him success with great sincerity.

Just start your inner race without waiting to see who else is ready to run with you.
When others see that you have reached your goal, they will also be inspired to run.

This confirms that Mr. Nitin Mendiratta, during his employ at Embanet Corporation, provided, as an Application Developer exemplary standards of customer services in a variety of roles supporting the design, development, quality assurance, and implementation of total e-learning solutions.

Nitin has demonstrated magnificent abilities to easily blend into, and adapt to an ever-changing corporate environment. He continuously exhibits high levels of motivation and enthusiasm to succeed in the business world. Such exuberance led to his achievement of standards of excellence in customer service.

An excellent team player with strong analytical and organizational skills, Nitin remains strongly committed and dedicated to the fulfillment of his roles and responsibilities. He has been a reliable, conscientious Embanet associate with a proven track record of going the extra mile to ensure that we fulfill our clients' requirements by completing projects on time and within budget, while maintaining a true sense of corporate spirit. He requires minimum supervision.

Nitin's continual desire to succeed, coupled with his willingness to engage in continuous learning aimed towards professional self-improvement, makes him a valuable resource.

Nitin has described to me his unique life goals and aspirations in terms of making a significant contribution to society. I strongly believe that his commitment to these goals blended with his well-disciplined lifestyle, and his motivation to succeed in this area would lead to success only.

I am convinced that Nitin's relentless pursuit of this personal quest which is well aligned with his desire to serve humanity can lead only to realization of his goals. Nitin is a simple, yet determined intellectual with a remarkable vision, and the focus, drive, persistence, perseverance, and energy to fulfill that vision.

Without any reservations, I recommend Nitin to be considered for admission into the Masters of Computer Science in your academic institution.
